

Shift your focus to Adelaide South Australia

Adelaide Airport, the prime gateway to South Australia, continues to grow and currently serves more than 7 million passengers annually with efficient, comfortable and world-class services.

Adelaide Airport features Australia's most modern, state-of-the-art domestic and international terminal, with some of the world's major airlines flying non-stop regular services to Asia Pacific destinations. More than 30 flights a week travel to and from cities such as Hong Kong, Singapore, Kuala Lumpur and Auckland, and with excellent same-day connections with North America, UK and Europe.

A dedicated Singapore Airlines 747 freighter also operates weekly between Adelaide and Singapore.

More than 8,000 tonnes of cargo with a value of more than $AUD250 million exported annually to international destinations direct from Adelaide Airport.

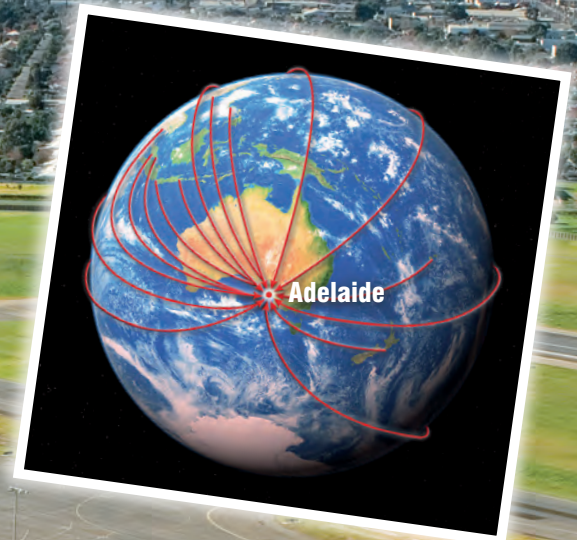

All of these services offer a considerable time saving on traditional freight export and import routes.

Adelaide Airport has been able to attract new airlines and open up more domestic and international routes by promoting South Australia's sub-mediterranean lifestyle and cosmopolitan image and its well-earned reputation for smart, efficient and hi-tech business facilities. With our modern multi-user integrated facilities and excellent weather characteristics, we have available slots for international traffic to grow our network.
